BUT WHO IN '68?

In either candidate had enough electoral votes to win at T), Richard Nixon held a slim lead over Vice President in Tuesday's balloting.

152,780 to 72,482.

Finally pulled away from building a lead of 118,882 to 100,167. Despite the large number of votes remaining to be counted, Weisemann said "I assume Mr. Bennett is going to be continuing as U.S. Senator."

Weisemann led Richard Vaughan 69,055 to 32,496, or 65 per cent count.

Lloyd's margin over Galen Ross was 74,312 to 43,280 with 62 per cent in Utah voters also defeated a proposal for legalized liquor-by-the-drank Tuesday night, ending a money vs. moral issue that stole campaign attention from Vietnam and the presidency.

With 35 per cent of the vote in, there were 82,122 votes against the issue and 46,214 for it.

Emotions had flared over the issue since early summer, in a state where advocates had to buck old-line teaching of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints [Mormon]. The church considers drinking a mortal wrong.

Sponsors said Utah needed over-the-bar profits to attract new facilities for conventions and tourists. Opponents said travelers were attracted by the state's family atmosphere, not cocktails. The sales more money could only add to social problems, and claimed the bill was badly drafted.

Electors Fail To Choose Winner In Record Ballotting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Richard M. Nixon battled to a virtual deadlock early today in a monumental struggle for the electoral votes to become the 37th president of the United States.

Nixon held the slimmest of popular vote leads but neither contestant appeared to have the crucial, 270-vote electoral majority within reach.

The arithmetic of the electoral college raised the prospect that America's voters had failed to choose a new president.

If neither Nixon nor Humphrey is able to muster a 270-vote majority of the electoral college, the outcome will remain in doubt for at least 41 days, until that body meets in the 50 state capitals to cast its vote.

And should it deadlock then, the choice would go to the House of Representatives, for the first time in 144 years.

Nixon and Humphrey ran far ahead of George C. Wallace. But the Deep South electoral votes captured by the third party candidate could prove crucial in determining whether either is able to fashion a clear victory now.

Giant California, with 40 electoral votes; still-swinging Illinois, with 26, and a handful of smaller states held the key to victory for either of the major party candidates.

For Nixon, the tension of election night could only recall another night, eight years ago, when the choice was between him and the late John F. Kennedy. He lost that one, by the narrowest of margins.

This time, in percentage terms, the popular vote stood at 43 per cent for Nixon, 42 per cent for Humphrey, with Wallace holding the balance.

In electoral terms, Humphrey had captured 11 states with 151 votes; Nixon had won 23 states with 162.

Nixon led in states which held 93 more electoral votes; Humphrey in states with 85.

Democrats kept their grip on Congress, although Republicans scored Senate gains. In the House, which could not be decided in the entire area, Democratic control appeared unshaken.

Richard M. Nixon's hopes for an electoral majority of 270 were dimmed on holding California and either recapturing Illinois or Montana, Oregon and Washington from Humphrey.

Humphrey's chance of an immediate electoral decision depended on winning Illinois and California.

George C. Wallace, although making a poorer showing than expected in states like New York and Georgia, was likely to win 45 electoral votes—possibly enough to deny Republican Nixon or Democrat Humphrey the electoral majority.

Humphrey built his lead in crucial Illinois on return from the Chicago area. Downstate areas, traditionally Republican, were expected to pull Nixon closer or win him the state.

Illinois' 26 votes and California's 40 would give Nixon enough for victory barring a string of reversals in other states.

At 1:20 a.m. (EST), Nixon had won 152 electoral votes and led in states with 99 more for a potential total of 251.

Humphrey had won 147 and led in states with 88 more for a potential of 235.

Newsman Dan Rather Relates Experiences

DAN RATHER, White House correspondent for CBS News during the Johnson administration, will speak at BYU's forum assembly Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

In his lecture Mr. Rather will include a discussion of his identifications, goals and a nationwide of the 1968 presidential campaign.

Appointed to the position the White House correspondent after he distinguished himself as CBS News' key man in the coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy.

In his lecture Mr. Rather has become a familiar figure in spots around the globe. In 1965-66 he covered the war in Vietnam and Saigon as well as from the fighting front.

Even before his Vietnam assignment, Mr. Rather was no stranger to danger. He headed CBS News' coverage of the riots surrounding James Meredith's march across the University of Mississippi, the turbulent civil rights demonstrations in Birmingham, Ala.; and the events at Tuscaloosa, Ala., when Governor George Wallace "stood in the schoolhouse door" to prevent Negro students from entering the University of Alabama.

SOUTHERN NEWS

His outstanding reporting of the tragic events of President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas earned for him the privileged position of White House correspondent.

As southern representative for CBS, Mr. Rather covered revolts in Guatemala and Honduras, riot in Nicaragua and Panama, and the visit of President and Mrs. Kennedy to Mexico. As a correspondent he has traveled more than one million air miles and reported from all 50 states and more than a dozen foreign countries.

He joined CBS News in 1962 as chief of the Southwest Bureau in Dallas, after two years as director of News and Information for KRLD-TV in Houston. While he was in this position, his news operation won two national awards, the Headliners and the Sigma Delta Chi honors for television news public service.

Mr. Rather received the U.S. degree in journalism at Sam M. Walton State College in 1953 and spent the following year as an instructor in journalism at that college.

Tithe Law Theme Of Devotional

"The Lord's Revenue System" was the theme of the Devotional address presented by Marion G. Romney, member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Elder Romney referred to the law of titling stating that, "Many live it and all of you benefit by it."

He added that in paying tithe, we are "discharging an obligation which the Lord Jesus Christ has imposed upon us." He commented on the fact that we are only stewards over earthly blessings that the Lord has provided for us, and that we are complying with divine law when we observe our tithe.

DEBT TO THE LORD

The law of tithe asks that we pay certain of what we have to the Lord and then retain the rest of our incomes. "This is a debt everyone owes to the Lord, as literally as a grocery bill or light or water bill." He stated that the Lord is a preferred creditor and should be repaid.

Elder Romney included several reasons for obeying the law of tithe. He called it a sound financial investment that would "open the way to heaven" and in a humorous vein called it fire insurance. However, he pointed out seriously that the penalty for not paying a full tithe is exacting, and "he that is tithe will not burn in the great configuration at the second coming of Christ."

FAITH IS NEEDED

He also said that tithe qualifies one to receive higher ordinances of the Priesthood. He expressed the opinion that sacrifice brings forth blessings of material and spiritual prosperity. "We need to pay tithe to develop the soul of the taxpayer," Romney said. "Pay an honest tithe and be blessed. But don't quibble over it. If you are not sure, pay a little more and learn how to prepare for eternal life."

Clark Merits Distinction

The National Register of Prominent Americans has selected Bruce B. Clark, dean of humanities at BYU, a member of prominent distinction.

The NRPA is a national organization whose purpose is to recognize outstanding persons of governmental and professional prominence.

Bruce Clark, who is also listed in "Who's Who in America," was elected because of his accomplishments in the fields of publication, lecturing, teaching and educational leadership.

Such elections are unrestricted and candidates must be placed in nomination and approved through the board of trustees of the NRPA.

The directory staff includes Douglas R. McKinlay, business manager and editor; Sandra Griswold and Linda Gergar, editorial assistants; Doug Bell, art director; and Carol Johnson and Douglas McKinlay, advertising sales; and Merwin G. Fairbanks, advisor.

Lockheed Subcontract Awarded To BYU

A $32,000 research subcontract from the Lockheed Propulsion Company, Redlands, Calif., study radio interference characteristics of rocket exhaust jets has been to BYU.

A team of BYU engineers Dr. L. Douglas Smoot, Dr. C. L. Jones, Dr. S. E. mechanical engineering; and Dr. O. Bennett, electrical engineer conduct the research which completed in one year. The amount of time fifty percent longer than originally planned at BYU.

As a part of the study, Dr. and Dr. Smoot spent a week Ordnance Aerodynamics Laboratory, Texas, direct experimental test program some minor modifications.

The Ordnance Aerodynamics Laboratory is a facility which simulated flight of a missile. During this simulated flight, attenuation levels caused by atmospheric jets are measured, and the effect of the velocity of the missile can be reproduced.

The missile contains a propellant which produces exhaust. This heat is conducted to certain exhaust ingesting lines, thereby interfering with communication signals to the missile.

The BYU team of engineers responsible for analysis interpretation of obtained data.

"Amici della Musica" is the name of the nation's newest full-time chamber orchestra.

The director is a BYU alumnus, 29-year-old Richard Williams is hailed by California critics as "one of the brightest young maestros to own his own professional chamber orchestra."

Williams received his M.A. from BYU where he studied with Lawrence Salsbury and had the opportunity of rehearsing the university orchestra—an invaluable experience for a fledgling conductor.

Professor Salsbury says, "Williams is one of the few young conductors who know what he wants and how to get it out of the orchestra... and has the ability to stimulate the musicians in his orchestra."

Piano lessons started at age five. Once having decided to become a concert pianist, he took up the cello after a number of years in order to familiarize himself with the principles of conducting.

As a doctoral candidate at Indiana University he tried of being a "button waver," but Williams wanted his own orchestra in front of him.

In 1965 Williams went to the University of Santa Clara and sold the Jesuits on the idea of starting music classes and of creating a resident chamber orchestra.

Today he heads the music department on campus and is conductor of his own orchestra—the "Amici della Musica." After receiving much local acclaim, the orchestra made its debut in San Francisco. Here are a few comments the critics made:

Richard Williams is "likened to Bartolomeo or Szell and his emphasis on rounded sound and a gracefully singing line was immensely sophisticated. Even if his name isn't Istvan, Zubin or Seiji," says Arthur Bloomsfield of the "San Francisco Examiner."

San Francisco's "Chronicle" says Williams gives a sensitive, impressive performance full of character and vitality.

The Amici della Musica is the second full-time chamber orchestra to be created for some time. The first was one other full-time chamber orchestra in the United States and this is the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra consisting mainly of members of Eugene Ormandy's Philadelphia Orchestra.

Skits-O-Frantic Begins To Take Shape For Friday

The climax of work and planning occurs next week as the Culture Office brings "Coming Cleches—or, How It Happened Before It Was Trite" to BYU students.

Cubs, organizations and wards have been working on the skits for the 1968 Skits-O-Frantic. Many original ideas and skits have been taken shape for next Friday's performance in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Liszt Program

A deeper understanding of the contributions Liszt made to the field of music is the theme for Thursday's Second Annual Liszt Festival.

The annual Liszt Society, will open with presentation of the plans and projects of the Society by Dr. Lorin F. Wheelwright, dean of BYU's College of Fine Arts and Communications, and Dr. David L. Johnson, president of Radford College, Radford, Va.

Other planned activities include various artist's renditions of Franz Liszt's works. Ya-Lam Hong, a native of Hong Kong, is scheduled to play three sonatas. The piano recital will be followed by a lecture on the Skysong.

The afternoon's events include a lecture-recital by Dr. William Goode of Masfield, Pa. He will discuss and perform the late piano works of Franz Liszt.

COUGAR LINEBACKER

Craig Bozich, who is a definite All-America possibility, led the Cats in defensive statistics against Utah. Craig was credited with 11 unassisted and 14 assisted tackles in what Coach Hudspeth called one of the finest games ever played by a Cougar.

Defensive Giant ...

All-America Bozich?

By John Robinson
Asst. Sports Editor

"I personally would like to see the offensive line get some credit for a change. I don't know who picks these Players of the Week things, but guys like Squires, Cole and Lopez work their tails off—they're the ones who deserve the recognition."

The preceding opinion was voiced by Cat linebacker Craig Bozich when he learned of his selection as DAILY UNIVERSE Player of the Week for his performance against Utah last Saturday.

This marks the second time that the 215-lb. senior from Aurora, Colo., has been so honored. The first occurred after the Cat's season opener against Western Michigan.

Craig makes it known that he is proud to be identified as a Cougar in spite of the 1-3 record, which he feels some people consider unsatisfactory.

PLAYED HARD

"We've played our hearts out every game. We've been beaten by good football teams in games that could have gone either way. I do not feel the heat is on us. I think we're doing well that I'm a representative of this team. I know that the same applies for the rest of the guys."

As for the Utah game, Craig was not disappointed with the team's performance. "In a rival game like that," he went on, "records don't mean a thing. They had a slight advantage playing at home and we made a few too many mistakes. They hadn't beaten us in three years and were probably up extra high because of that."

Concerning his own personal performance, Craig said, "Sure, I played a good game because the other guys were knocking down the blockers allowing me to get in on the tackles. Otherwise, I would have looked like heck."

According to Craig, now that the Cats are out of the running for the Conference crown, they have been thrown in with the lower division teams. "We have good game spirit and we're going to hang in there until the end, still playing them one at a time. As I said before, I'm proud to be associated with this team."

Craig is currently a member of WAC as an tough as any league in the country," he added. He rates Wyoming as the strongest of the strong and also the best team BYU has faced.

BASEBALL

Football is not the only sport that Craig has excelled at. He was drafted by the Detroit Tigers, this year's World Series champion, after his senior year in high school. He did not go, however, opting an uncertain career as a baseball player in favor of an education.

He did play baseball as a freshman and according to one of this year's coaches, Jim Romney, Craig "hit the ball a long ways."

Craig was recently married. He tied the knot in July with the former Sam Sue Anderson.

As for the future, he will wait for the player draft before deciding if pro football will play a part in it.

'Hard Luck' Cougars Host Tough Utah Aggies Saturday

There is no "King's X" in football, but it's a maneuver BYU might consider prior to Saturday's traditional meeting with the State of Utah.

The Cougars have fallen on hard times in recent weeks, and the Aggies should be strong favorites for Saturday's 1:30 p.m. kickoff on the BYU hilltop.

Head coach Chuck Mills and the Aggies drew a bye last weekend, which provided them with an opportunity to watch the Cougars in a losing effort against Utah. The Utah State scouts were there and took a long look at the Cougars.

What they saw was a gallant effort on the part of the Cougars to beat another fierce rival, Utah. But BYU was up with 13-10 at the end of the Cat's fifth straight setback this season. Monday head coach Tommy Hudspeth was still looking for a little silver lining when it was learned that two of the Cougars' offensive regulars were cut out with injuries for the rest of the season.

Kip Jackson, the sophomore wingback who is the Y's number two receiver, and starting left guard George Gruber were both injured during the last game. Each is suffering from a knee problem and will miss the balance of the season.

There was a "will-it-ever-end?" look on Hudspeth's face as he studied the possible changes that must be made to make up for the loss of the two Cougars.

Co-captain Wally Hawkins will probably be moved to tailback and Ron Wiley will be shifted from tailback to fullback for the remainder of the season. Reserve guard Mike Weintraub is the top candidate to take over the

The Cougars will enter Saturday's game with their third football make this year, their 44th meeting between the two schools.

The most disconcerting thing about the Cougar deficit is the fact that the Cougars are in a position to win four games this season and still lose.

BYU was down 7-14 with 17 seconds remaining in the first half, quarterback Ray Groth raced 72 yards to give the Cats a 20-7 halftime lead. In the fourth quarter, the narrow gap to 21-23 with nine minutes remaining, but three interceptions provided the Utah State opportunity to score.

In all, BYU had a total of turnovers: three fumbles lost and three interceptions.

McLain Receives A.L. MVP

By LARRY PALADINO

DIRECTOR (AP)—Not since all year long Denny McLain was the proud, often cocky young Detroit Tiger pitcher who was headed for the fame and fortune of an unbelievably successful baseball season.

But now that he has achieved the ultimate, records held him named Most Valuable Player in the American League, he is a changed person—the ultimate in humility.

"When I got it, I thought Dick McAuliffe would get it because I contend he is the most valuable player," McLain said of the sparkling Tiger second baseman, "Along with Bill Freehan, Jim Northrop, Mickey Lolich, Jim Morris, Al Kaline . . . he rambled on naming nearly all the Tiger stars.

"I could have never done it without the 24 guys I participated with this year," he said. "I'm glad."

Last week, he was the Cy Young Award for being the best pitcher in the American League. He called it, "The greatest honor ever put on me." With all that behind him the only greater award could have been to be named MVP.

"This is the greatest honor I have ever had bestowed on me; it's a recognition that I don't believe," he said.

Barriers Wanted For MAC Meet

by Roger Aylworth
Sports Writer

El Paso is favored to win MAC championship if it ever reaches the seventh annual cross-country meet is held in Arizona next Saturday.

BYU took the top honors at the MAC last year, but the job has since graduated, but first place in the individual meet is left.

Only rugged New Mexico, won the event three times, respectively, challenge El Paso for the top spot.

The favorites for the crown are Jerry Prace of El Paso, Terry Jabolik of State, Terry Harrison of State and Chuck Schuch of a native of Australia and holds the world's indoor two-mile run. He also national 25-kilometer race at State, which was won up in 1:10,000-meter race at each, who runs despite a case of transfer student from a run well this fall.

EL PASO SLEEPER

In the women's race prove to Brammell, Dan McAllister, defeated the Austin twice this year at El Paso will finish third. Prace, McAllister and Harrison, New Mexico, will join Schuch, Adrienne finished fifth last year, but, who finished 9th last long runners include Wayne Finlay of Wyoming, and Scott Goldring of Camel Quintana of Arizona Valley and Gerry Walker of assistant of Colorado State and of BYU.

Runners are in the process of forming. Last year BYU had the top ten in individual and the year none of these returning.

Casaba Clinic Set

Stan Watts, basketball coach and assistant athletic director, has announced plans for the Sixth Annual BYU Basketball Clinic.

The clinic will be held Nov. 23, with registration time set for 9 a.m. The fresh-varietate basketball clinic will be separate from the clinic. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Guest lecturers will be athletic director and basketball coach Lou Henson and New Mexico State University, Art Hughes from Hilcrest High School, and Ted Chidester from North Summit High School.

New Mexico State coach Henson took a team to 1967 and turned it into a 15-4 record in 1968 and an NCAA playoff. In 1968 the Aggies registered a 23-6 mark and another trip to the NCAA West Regionals.

In the final national basketball polls Henson's aggies were awarded 12th place.

Art Hughes guided Hilcrest High School to the state class "A" title last March. It was the sixth state title for Hughes. He was five state titles while at Jordan High School.

Ted Chidester led North Summit to a Utah class "B" title in 1968. It was a first for both the coach and the school. Chidester won the state title in his fifth year after several regional titles at North Summit.

Honus Smith, Chidester will speak in the morning session. Henson will lecture during the afternoon.

All coaches and interested persons should register with BYU coach Stan Watts at the Smith Fieldhouse by mail or in person as early as possible.

BYU Supreme Court Begins Action Today

by Doug Zincke
University Staff Writer

Tackling a far-reaching question, the ASBYU Supreme Court swings into action Wednesday evening behind closed doors.

The opening case of the 1968-69 term will decide who has the legislative powers of the BYU Student Government, the Executive Council or the Cabinet, or if the power is concurrent.

The litigation was brought by Judy E. Gehrlein, counselor pro tempore, in a preliminary brief submitted on Oct. 3. She charged that the student actions on Oct. 2 (accepting a motion that deposits legislative powers in the Cabinet), violates the ASBYU Constitution, Article II, Section 1, Subsection A.

Also to be decided is who is chairman of the Cabinet—whether Paul Gehrlein, AMS President; ASBYU President Grant L. Reynolds, or Richard Casper, AMS President, elected by the Cabinet on October 7, at a special meeting.

The Supreme Court meets Wednesday night behind closed doors to deliberate on this and other matters, and to act hearing dates.

Steve Gulbransen, Supreme Court Chairman, has set a Friday hearing date for the document for written defense to be submitted to the court. Casper is heading up the defense in this court-ordered process.

Gulbransen, in an interview Saturday afternoon, stated that the Supreme Court derives its power of original jurisdiction and appellate jurisdiction from the ASBYU Constitution and is composed of four justices and one chief justice.

Gulbransen said that the Supreme Court will give the members to serve the student body. He said that it provides the student with a proper check over the executive and legislative functions of the student body government.

In addition to powers of judicial review, Gulbransen remarked that the chief justice carries the responsibility of chairing the Executive Council in impeachment proceedings, and at such time as a vacancy occurs in the office of the president of the student body, the Supreme Court must fill the vacancy by appointment of one of the members of the Executive Council.
